Who We Are

So What Else is a non-profit organization that provides FREE, enriching out-of-school programs for children ages 5-18. Recently, COVID-19 pivoted our mission to include both emergency hunger relief and youth development in order to continue serving our students.

MISSION STATEMENT

"To serve kids, serve the community and help kids serve the community." SWE is committed to serving our children, our community and the planet through enriching, service-based out of school time programming, solving food insecurity and promoting volunteerism in the Baltimore-Washington Metropolitan Area.

THE VISION

To provide children and families opportunities to enriching programs and access basic-necessities.

Emergency Food Services

With neighborhood distribution tables, emergency home deliveries and a newly opened food pantry, So What Else collaborates with community organizations to serve 85 neighborhoods & 22,000 individuals per week.

What We Offer

AFTER SCHOOL PROGRAMS

Children have a safe and enriching environment to attend when they're not in school and take part in a variety of health and service based activities. SWE now offers virtual programs too!

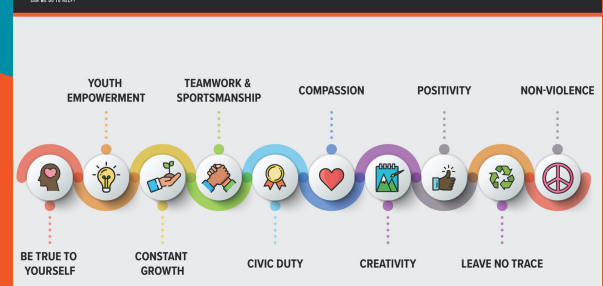

SUMMER CAMP

Students are served two meals a day and take part in active games, sports, arts and crafts, literacy, STEM and wellness. All programs incorporate our value system 'The 10 Pillars' shown below.

FOOD SECURITY

Sparked by the needs of our students and their families after COVID-19 shutdowns, SWE pivoted into a hunger relief team and has since served over 3 million meals!
